In an interview with the German daily “Bild”, Dr. Axel C. Heitmann, Chairman of the Board of Management of LANXESS AG, speaks about the current relocation plans of the company. He explained: “We will definitely move to Cologne. We will be a Cologne-based company.” Although LANXESS is present throughout the world, the German locations and especially North-Rhine Westphalia remained extremely important. The group wants to help Germany to remain strong in the future. In addition to this, the growth market China is even more important than India and Brazil. In these areas, the company operates with 13 branches and already has six individual production locations. This helped LANXESS to achieve an increase in turnover of 15 percent to EUR 500 million in the last year. LANXESS currently employs 950 people in China.
